Warsaw Battle Fought Sunday With Shotguns

Two brothers armed with shotguns leveled their weapons at each other in feud near Warsaw early Sunday and blasted away. One fell dead in the front yard of the hill farm home, the other was injured critically.

Dead is Otha Hayden Summers, 37. His brother, Glenn Clifton Summers, 31, is in the Wetzel hospital at Clinton with a shotgun wound in the abdomen and chest.

Dr. Carrol Wetzel reported Summers was in "fair" condition Monday morning.

Robert White, Benton County sheriff said the shooting occurred about 6 o'clock in the morning at the family home nine miles northeast of Warsaw. He said the mother of the two unmarried men, Mrs. Elva Summers, 67, and another brother, Luther Norman Summers, 34, said the trouble had begun Saturday night when Otha drank too much liquor.

Mrs. Summers said Otha went to the home of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Muncy. Otha threatened Muncy with his gun, Mrs. Summers said, and forced Muncy outside the house. Muncy told the sheriff he stayed outside the house all night, unable to go for help because Otha's truck was parked behind his truck in the driveway.

Sunday morning, Mrs. Summers said, she went to the Muncy house to tell Otha to go home, because Muncy had gone after the sheriff. She said Otha hollered across the valley that he was coming home and kill Glenn and Luther.

When Otha came home Glenn was standing in the doorway with a .410 shotgun, she said. When Otha got about 20 feet from the door he raised his 20-gauge shotgun and fired, hitting the house near Glenn, she said. He fired again and hit Otha in the heart, she said. Luther grabbed Otha's gun from him and beat him on the head with it.

Luther took Glenn in a pickup truck to the Benton County clinic at Warsaw, then he was taken by ambulance to Clinton.

Sheriff White said no inquest is planned.

Wide Variety Of Events Set During Fair

W. H. "Chubby" Ritzenthaler, Secretary of the Missouri State Fair, said today the 1961 Fair will feature a wide variety of free attractions.

He called particular attention to the Children's Barnyard, Railroad Exhibit, Homemaker's Workshop, Milking Parlor and Meat Display Case — citing their popularity at earlier fairs — but pointed out that dozens of other free exhibits and demonstrations would be available at the fair grounds.

Ritzenthaler explained that the Children's Barnyard — a zoo made up of farm animals—would be open continuously during the Fair, while two demonstrations a day would be given at the Homemaker's Workshop. The demonstrations are scheduled for 11 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. and will run for the nine days of the Fair, which opens Saturday, Aug. 19.

The Railroad Exhibit will be stationed at the south end of the fair grounds next to the floriculture building, with the Milking Parlor across from the Dairy barns and the meat display case under the grandstand, Ritzenthaler said.

Other attractions at the Missouri State Fair include auto and horse races, livestock and farm machinery exhibits, night entertainment in front of the grandstand, a carnival, and a large range of displays and contests.

Clair Rhodes Dies In Crash Near Warsaw

Pharmacist Worked Part-time For Local Drug Store

A pharmacist who operated an early Missouri radio station died of injuries received in a head-on auto collision just north of Warsaw on Highway 65 at 5:35 p.m. Sunday.

Clair Cecil Rhodes, 75, of Warsaw, died enroute to the hospital after his 1960 Ford sedan collided with a 1953 Ford driven by Larry Lee Lybarger, 18, Garnett, Kan. According to the State Highway Patrol report the collision occurred as the two vehicles were rounding a curve four-tenths of a mile north of the Highway 65 spur near Warsaw. The patrol reported Mr. Rhodes' machine was northbound at the time of the fatal mishap.

Lybarger was taken to Bothwell Hospital in a Reser ambulance where he was treated for a laceration to the right knee and abrasions and was later released. The accident was investigated by Trooper Bob Cummings of Warsaw.

Mr. Rhodes had been a registered pharmacist over 50 years and was employed on a part-time basis at Bing's Rexall Drug in Sedalia. He had served as relief pharmacist at the local drugstore for about four years.

He had operated drugstores in Butler, Windsor, Warsaw and Kansas City and at one time owned a number of theater houses. He built a theater at Warsaw in 1930 and owned it until 1951 when he sold it along with other theater holdings at Cole Camp, Buffalo, Camdenton and Liberal.

In the back of his drugstore in Butler in 1924, he opened radio station WNAR, the seventh radio station licensed by the federal government. From this station he gave daily broadcasts. He said the station several years later.

He was a son of the late Dr. E. L. Rhodes, Sr. of Lincoln.

Surviving are: his wife, Lottie; one son, Dr. E. L. Rhodes, a former Sedalia physician now practicing in Warsaw; two granddaughters, Charlou Rhodes, Warsaw; Sharon Rhodes, Fayette; one sister, Mrs. Winnie Benz, of Bakersfield, Calif.; and a niece Margaret Kennedy, of New York.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Reser Funeral Chapel in Warsaw.

Burial will be in Lincoln Cemetery.

Navy Forced To Rebuild Church Spire

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP)—A small Methodist church on the outskirts of Gainesville has won its battle with the U. S. Navy. A steeple, removed 17 years ago as a hazard to student pilots, will be replaced at government expense.

Cmdr. R. O. Rechsteiner of the Atlanta Naval Air Base presented a check for $3,500 to the Mill Methodist church in a ceremony Sunday.

In 1944, the Navy established an air base at the Gainesville airport to train new pilots. Officials said the church steeple was in the way and would have to go. The congregation got the Navy to promise to replace it after the war.

The war ended and the Navy moved out of Gainesville. Government officials said they could find no record of having promised to rebuild the steeple.

The Rev. Truman Thomas, pastor of the church, wrote letters, banged on desks and pleaded with officials.

Finally, a search through the church's minutes for 1944 disclosed that naval personnel had promised to rebuild the steeple. So the Navy paid off.

Hamilton Seen As CIA Head

Is Reported In Line To Replace Dulles

NEW YORK (AP) — Fowler Hamilton, a Wall Street lawyer and veteran of government service, is reported in line to succeed Allen W. Dulles as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The report came in an article to be published in the Aug. 7 issue of Newsweek magazine. The article says Hamilton, 50, is to succeed Dulles as head of the controversial hush-hush agency in October, following several months of working with Dulles.

The magazine said Hamilton will move into a CIA office in the near future and that he was chosen after a meeting with President Kennedy several weeks ago and a secret meeting with Dulles.

A Democrat, Hamilton has been in and out of government service for the past 20 years. He joined the Justice Department, in 1938 as a special assistant to the attorney general and directed the department's war fraud unit in 1942.

From 1943 to 1946, he was chief of the Board of Economic Warfare's enemy branch, was a member of the joint intelligence staff and a member of the strategic bombing target committee. At one time, he was stationed in the China-Burma-India theater helping to select bombing mission targets.

A native of Kansas City, Hamilton completed his undergraduate and law studies at the University of Missouri and was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University.

Hamilton is a partner in the Wall Street firm of Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen and Hamilton, with offices in Paris and Brussels.

Hamilton lives in Greenwich, Conn. with his wife, the former Helen Katherine Miller, and their three children.

Contacted Sunday night in Greenwich, Hamilton said: "I am not in a position to comment on this matter at this time."

Hear Secretary of State

Masonic Temple Dedication Attendance Tops 500 Mark

More than 500 people attended the dedication of the new Masonic Temple, Broadway and Missouri, Sunday afternoon at which Warren E. Hearnes, Secretary of State, was the speaker.

Most Worshipful Brother Bruce H. Hunt, Kirksville, grand master of the grand lodge, A. F. and A. M. of the State of Missouri, dedicated the building.

In his talk Secretary of State Hearnes said that the gathering was for the purpose of dedicating the building to freedom and truth and that he was grateful to live in a country where a Masonic Temple could be dedicated.

One of the first groups banned by Hitler was the Masons. The Masonic Order, he stated, is secret because you must belong to believe. It is a way of life. The foundation, he said, is the Blue Lodge of the Masons which is a code of conduct. The ritual is based on religion and there is beauty in the Masonic work as well as fellowship.

The rewards of Masonry are not monetary but are spiritual because it is based on belief in the Supreme Being and thus cannot exist under a dictator, for Masonry stands always for the democracy, with a type of wisdom dedicated to belief in freedom.

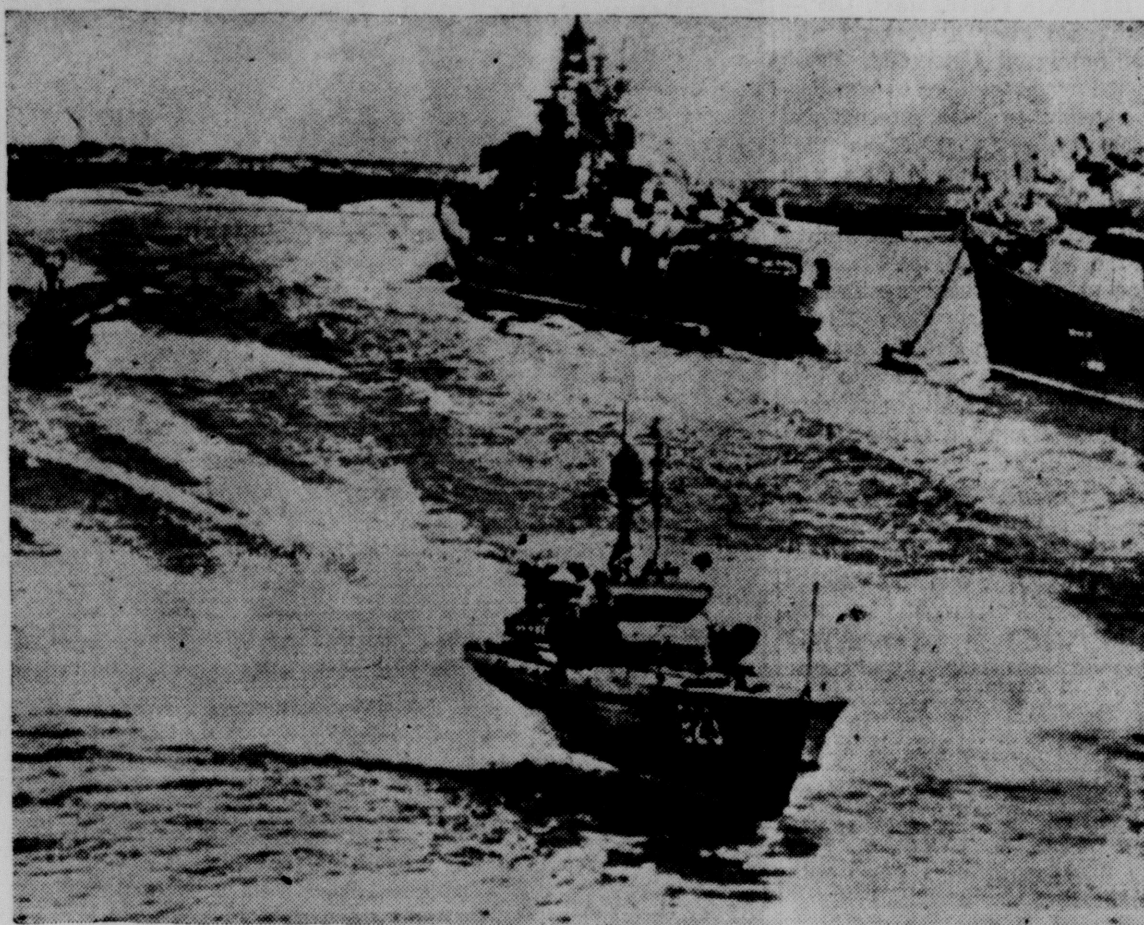

The speaker closed with the thought that through this temple a long life dedicated to the teaching of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masonry would continue to exist.

The dedication began with the procession in which were officers who encircled the altar. Jack Chambers was at the organ and Francis Rudd was soloist for the ceremony.

Roy DeWitt, Worshipful Master, representing the lodges, told the Most Worshipful Grand Master of the State of Missouri, Bruce H. Hunt, of the purpose of the meeting, which was for the dedication.

Francis Rudd then sang "Holy Spirit."

Burl Sammons, architect, then presented to the Worshipful Grand Master of Missouri, the square and compass, explaining that the plans of the building had been drawn and the building built according to the plans, that in this

TV Station To Change Hands Soon

The question of programming on Channel 6, after the transfer of the license and equipment to station KRCG in Jefferson City, has not been determined, according to John Garner, station manager at the present time.

The actual take-over of the Channel 6 station in Sedalia will take place at 12:01 a.m. Aug. 29, in the event there are no unforeseen hitches in the deal after the required 30-day waiting period, Garner said.

It has been reported that Channel 6 in Sedalia will become a satellite station of Channel 13 in Jefferson City, which is owned and operated by the Jefferson Broadcasting Co. The transfer of license and equipment was authorized by the Federal Communications Commission last week.

Several questions have been asked by the public since the transfer was approved. Will the

Pair Charged With Enticing A Minor Child

A young woman and her male companion were arraigned in magistrate court at Booneville today on charges of enticing a minor child away from its home. The case was bound over to Cooper County Circuit Court and the pair is being held in the county's jail in lieu of $2,000 set by the court.

Charges against Mary Angeline Powell, 20, Lexington, and F. B. Johnson, 24, Stover, resulted after the pair went to Booneville about 8 p.m. Sunday evening and picked up the Powell woman's son by a former marriage, Steven Wayne Roth, 2½, according to Cooper County Sheriff Lyburn Mann.

Sheriff Mann said the youngster had been in the custody of the Powell woman's ex-husband, John Roth, since the couple was divorced.

The pair and the youngster were picked up in Morgan County near Stover by Sheriff J. T. Hull and Highway Patrolman D. J. Slevin later Sunday night. The youngster was returned to its father in Booneville, Sheriff Mann said.

The charge, with a conviction, carries a penalty varying from a $500 fine to 20 years' imprisonment, Sheriff Mann stated.

Mixed Feeling Of Skepticism

Blueprint for a Utopian World for Soviet People

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Communist party's promise of a golden age ahead for the people of the Soviet Union evoked mixed feelings of skepticism and hope in Western Europe today.

Skepticism at the grandiose ideals outlined in the Communist blueprint for a coming Utopia for the Soviet's millions; hope aroused by the rejection of war and the declaration that to realize this easy life there must be peace on earth.

Belief was expressed in Britain that Premier Khrushchev would not be prepared to gamble away his goals of a Communist paradise by risking war with the West.

Belgian Socialists saw the program as partly a political maneuver. A Swedish conservative newspaper, Svenska Dagbladet, said the promised achievements are "so long-dated that it must be safe for Khrushchev to feel that it can hardly be he who will have to answer if they are not redeemed."

The 20-year plan made public over the weekend declared that by 1970 the Soviet Union would outdistance the United States in per capita production and by 1980 would give the Soviet people the highest standard of living in the world — "everyone will live in easy circumstances."

The Soviet people were promised free housing and public transportation in the 1970s, a gradual shortening of the workweek to six hours a day, and before completion of the program free education, free medical care, free gas and heating and free water.

The 45,000-word manifesto—the first grand Soviet plan since Lenin's in 1919—pledged a policy of coexistence with the West in an apparent slap at the Chinese Communists.

Conspicuously missing from the document was any mention of Stalin, who never issued such a wide-ranging proclamation during his long reign.

Bearing the imprint of Khrushchev himself, the draft plan will be presented to the 22nd party congress in October. Its ratification is a certainty.

London's conservative Daily Telegraph, called the program "pie in the sky" and said: "It is difficult to believe that, having staked his reputation on a long-term program of social and economic reform, Mr. Khrushchev would want to throw everything to the winds in a gamble over Berlin."

Nobleman Is Giving Up Jazz Festival

BEAULIEU, England (AP)—Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, the heaviest noble in the realm, sadly announced today he is abandoning his annual jazz festivals in the crumbling ruins of the local abbey.

He is afraid the village of Beaulieu, population 1,000, will end up in ruins, too.

Montagu made his decision after surveying the splintered windows and trampled flower beds left in the wake of this year's festival.

About 4,000 jazz-lovers—traditional, modern and mainstream—jammed into this quiet corner of Hampshire Saturday for the two-day blow. About 5,000 gatecrashers with no entrance money moved into the town and nearly wrecked the joint.

They trod on cottage gardens, smashed windows, clashed with paying patrons, got drunk and sprawled with their girls on the roadsides.

"It was sickening," Montagu declared.

There were riots last year, too. "It has become increasingly apparent," said Montagu, "that there is a large crowd of irresponsible persons who come to Beaulieu with no other intention than to cause trouble."

It wasn't the fault of the genuine jazz fans, he said.

Montagu hired a special corps of tough cops from the local constabulary to help keep order.

Boys from a local boxing club and ju-jitsu exponents from Cambridge University also stood guard to throw out gate crashers.

Montagu said he wasn't giving up the idea of holding a festival in some other place. But not in Beaulieu. He owns the place.

JFK Rested After Trip To Cape Cod

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Refreshed after a weekend with his family at Cape Cod, President Kennedy returns to Washington today to face international problems of Red China and stalled disarmament talks with the Soviet Union.

Within an hour after his arrival at the White House, the President was to see the vice president of Nationalist China, Chen Cheng, and three other Chinese emissaries who want to talk to him about keeping Red China and Outer Mongolia out of the United Nations.

He was awaiting a first-hand report, probably Tuesday, from his special disarmament adviser, John J. McCloy, who was ordered home from Moscow. McCloy, who spent three days conferring with Premier Khrushchev, could also give the President some idea of Khrushchev's reaction to the American defense buildup of the Berlin crisis.

Kennedy put such tense problems aside to some extent over the weekend as he relaxed with his family.

Kennedy and his wife, Jacqueline, were greeted with applause and the usual turnout of several hundred greeters Sunday when they attended 10 a.m. Mass at St. Francis Xavier church.

Later, they spent more than three hours aboard the 52-foot cruiser Marlin on a pleasant, sunny afternoon outing on Nantucket Sound.

The President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was at the tiller of the 22-foot blue sailboat "Victura" giving a boatload of eight youngsters a ride. His wife, Ethel, and two other children swam behind the sailboat, holding onto a tow rope.

The President took a load of youngsters and Kennedy adults from the pier to the Kennedy grounds in a white golf cart.

There are so many Kennedy children at play on the Kennedy waterfront compound that at times it takes on the look of a summer camp.

The Kennedys, who were celebrating the 32nd birthday of Mrs. Kennedy this weekend, also were reported to have had a clam bake among their varied outdoor activities.

Oil History Recalled By Thomas Galey

NEODESHA, Kan. (AP)—A speaker Sunday recited the history of the first well that tapped the vast oil pools under the Great Plains, ushering in the "horseless age."

Thomas M. Galey of Owensboro, Ky., oil historian, recalled that the nation's first producing well was drilled in 1859 near Titusville, Pa. The second was in California in 1875.

Then on Nov. 28, 1892, oil started flowing from Norman No. 1 on the bank of the Verdigris River at the edge of Neodesha.

That well opened the great Mid-Continent oil field stretching from Kansas to Beaumont, Tex.

"It was the beginning of a horseless age," Galey said, "but there was doubt there was enough gasoline to support the new age."

Then came Spindletop, the famous well at the southern edge of the Mid-Continent field, Galey said, and it "proved a gasoline age could be supported."

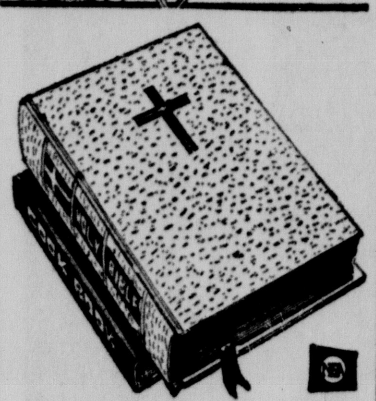

Galey spoke at the dedication of a replica of the Norman No. 1 rig. About 400 attended the hour-long ceremony.

"Our nation's activity is wrapped up in oil and it's going to come from lower formations in the future," said Galey, a nephew of the John H. Galey who was a pioneer in developing the Kansas oil fields.

Another speaker, J. C. Ducommun, Chicago oil executive, spoke of William M. Mills, who drilled Norman No. 1.

Sore Memory Recalled By Kentuckian

By GEORGE W. HACKETT NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—When his body healed, Hexie Maxie came out of the desolate eastern Kentucky hills to seek peace. He hasn't found it yet.

The former coal miner's life changed seven years ago today, after a ghastly, 30-second ride in an ancient auto down one of the highest mountains of the Cumberland chain.

There were 12 passengers, including Maxie's wife and three children, but only he survived the fiery crash which the National Safety Council called the worst single auto accident in its history.

"I still can't sleep some nights thinking about it," Maxie said.

He stopped to fill a customer's order. "I got out of mining and drifted into restaurant work after it happened."

Maxie remembers the excitement when his brother-in-law, Thomas Brown, bought the 13-year old car the day before the mishap.

"Our wives wanted to see the coal mine where both of us worked so we decided to make the trip the next day. We wanted it to be a holiday."

The Maxies, Brown, his wife, their four children, and a teenage girl who lived with them crowded into the automobile and started out.

All went well "until we came over the crest of Pine Mountain near Whitesburg."

"He (Brown) tried his brakes and didn't have any."

The car, rolling down the steep, winding highway, bounced off one cliff to another, overturned, and burst into flames. Maxie got out a rear window. The others were trapped inside.

Maxie says the gasoline tank caught fire as he escaped.

He grabbed an axe—"I still do not know where it came from"—and tried to hack an opening for the others until the heat drove him away. When he went back a second time he was pulled away by bystanders.

Maxie, burned severely over most of his body, spent months in a hospital. When he was finally released Maxie moved from town to town and finally came to Newport.

Last week the 42-year-old restaurant worker went home for the first time since the accident, but his memories drove him away again. "It'll be a long time before I return."

Maxie rides in an auto from time to time but never has learned to drive.

"I don't want the responsibility."

Merchants Finish Third In Semi-Pro Tournament

The Sedalia Merchants, behind the two-hit pitching of ex-Cardinal hurler Merritt, shut out Salem 8-0 in the first game of a Saturday night doubleheader in the state semi-pro tournament at Jefferson City.

This was Sedalia's fourth game in the tournament, and the game was called in the seventh inning because the locals had an eight run lead.

The victory gave the Merchants third place in the tournament and a chance for second place with a possible victory over the Washington "Buds." But in the second game of the doubleheader the "Buds" shaded the locals 3-2.

Merritt went all the way in the first game and took the win. Stephens was the loser.

Russian Navy Shows Might; Hides A-Subs

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union put on a show of its sea might Sunday but kept under wraps rocket-firing submarines that Deputy Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko says are the backbone of the Red navy.

Western observers who watched the naval demonstration off Leningrad said they were not particularly impressed.

Grechko, in a speech before taking the salute, boasted "the backbone of the Soviet navy's might is up-to-date atomic-powered submarines equipped with rockets of various kinds."

None appeared in the parade.

Fast Talking 6-Year-Old Has Holiday

NEW YORK (AP)—Dennis Fegal, a fast-talking 6-year-old, was back in his Queens home today after proving that a young man can still make his way in the world on nothing but his wits.

Dennis left his home Saturday morning with not a penny in his pockets.

Before he was located 14 hours later, Dennis had enjoyed a meal in a restaurant and had traveled all over New York City on the cuff. He had a pocketful of change and a brand new yo-yo.

In between, Dennis had led his parents and police a not-so-merry chase through Queens, Brooklyn and Manhattan.

The first word of Dennis' whereabouts came from a woman who said she had seen him board a bus. Police tracked down the driver, who told them he had taken Dennis to the Flatbush section of Brooklyn after the boy had conned him into a free ride by saying he was going to visit his grandmother.

The trail grew cold after that until late Saturday night, when a man reported to police a boy, apparently alone, was dining sumptuously in a Manhattan Automat.

Police picked up Dennis and took him to a precinct station until his parents could come for him.

Blimps May Get Role In Space Shots

WASHINGTON (AP)—An expert on dirigibles proposed today they be used instead of helicopters to fish Mercury astronauts and their capsules from the water.

Vice Adm. T. G. W. Settle (Ret.), former head of naval airship training and experimentation, said that had a blimp been used in Virgil I. Grissom's space flight the capsule and its valuable films and other data could have been recovered safely.

Also, Settle said, Grissom would have been spared the harrowing fight against wave action of helicopter prop wash.

Two years ago, Settle said in an interview, the Defense Department suggested that Navy blimps be considered as recovery vehicles for the Mercury astronauts.

He said the fleet turned down the idea on the ground no airship could be spared from operational assignments.

In June, however, the Navy announced the end of its lighter than air program and the planned deflation and storage of its fleet of about 15 blimps.

The former Navy officer said that Mercury Redstone shots are fairly straightforward, with landing areas accurately predictable. However, the landing of an orbital Mercury vehicle off Puerto Rico will be much more complicated, involving a large possible landing area. This may involve costly and extensive surface and air search and recovery operations.

Settle said the assignment of two or more of the larger blimps would greatly simplify the search and recovery problem and would provide these special advantages:

1. The airships would be able to hoist the recovered capsule directly to the gondola and bring it aboard.

2. The blimp's roominess would provide a flying hospital for immediate examination or treatment of the astronaut.

3. The airship's ability to remain aloft two days without refueling, and to stay on station for long periods with refueling from surface vessels in the area, would provide search facilities for extended periods.

The airship could carry a small powered, specially equipped boat that could be lowered to the surface to give immediate assistance on the spot if the astronaut needed it.

Call For a Solomon

Politics was blamed for years of delay in creating new federal judgeships needed to tackle a huge case backlog. Now that 73 new posts have been established, politics is being blamed for delay in filling them.

Certainly that is part of the current story, but not all.

Administration sources do not deny that some of these fat plums are kept dangling over lawmakers' heads while their votes on key legislation are sought. It is acknowledged, too, that at the last stages of selection the White House is often very closely involved in the choice of a judgeship prospect.

Further, fully half the available posts are tangled in controversy — some of it political. Factional fights and personal grudges play their part.

But some of the conflict is of a different order. Example: Forty lawyers may recommend a man in the highest terms, but seven others of equal stature may flatly assail his honesty. In the absence of conclusive evidence, whose judgment do you take?

Justice Department officials also make out a fairly strong case to the effect that the mere physical task of checking and appraising judicial candidates is vastly time consuming. And right now it involves not 73 but 95 U.S.

circuit and district judgeships, since 22 vacancies have developed.

For these openings the department has had to sift out 1,300 candidates, reducing them to less than 250.

Some names come accompanied by a big dossier of approving comment, while some represent no more than self-recommendation.

The better qualified prospects must run the gamut of a triple check: review by a regional member of the American Bar Association's 11-man judgeship committee, a two- to six weeks' FBI checkout, and, if the candidate is then still in the running, a final appraisal is the full ABA committee.

The latter's recommendation backs the issue to the deputy attorney general, Byron White. Here the decision is made, possibly with tight White House guidance.

So far seven judgeship choices have been confirmed and three await Senate action. By the time Congress quits, another 30 to 40 may be settled. The remainder, nearly half of all, may not be formally filled until 1962.

The noise of complaint over delay comes loudest from Capitol Hill. Senatorial recommendation is, of course, a leading factor in the selections made. Interesting it is, therefore, that in 21 of the 95 available posts no senatorial endorsement has yet been made.

Personal Convenience in 'Training'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — In view of President Kennedy's tough new military program, it might be well for the Air Force to keep a closer eye on some of its so-called "Training" flights.

There's an interesting difference between the manner in which civilian Cabinet officers are charged for airplanes by the Air Force and the manner in which Air Force officers can go on hunting trips and junkets.

If a civilian Cabinet officer needs a plane to go on a hurry-up mission, his department is charged for it. In contrast, here is how some Air Force, National Guard, and Reserve Officers use government planes.

Ex-Governor Joe Foss of South Dakota is now head of the American Football League with headquarters in Dallas. Joe lives in Sioux Falls, S. D. So every month the ex-governor of South Dakota, a National Guard officer, would fly down to Dallas, take care of his football duties, then fly back — all at the taxpayers' expense.

The trips got to be so regular that an Air Force inspector got curious and asked Joe the reason for his commuting routine. Ex-Governor Foss replied that it was "training." However, he agreed not to make the flights any more.

More Training Flights

Another case is that of William J. Crandall, a civilian pilot and Reserve Colonel in command of the 69th Troop Carrier Squadron, a Reserve unit, equipped with C-119 flying boxcars at Hensley Field, Dallas, Tex.

Crandall has dolled up one of the C-119's largely for his own personal use, with special painting and soundproofing drapes, floor-mats, a bed, table and chairs, and hot food warmer. This plane is used on so-called training flights.

When an old friend of Crandall's, Lt. Col. Joe Earl, came through Dallas, enroute to Brazil on June 23, he wanted a lift to Charleston, S. C. Conveniently, on June 26, Crandall arranged a training flight. The plane carried Crandall, Lt. Col. Earl, and one other passenger, though eight hitchhikers were picked up for the return flight, June 27. It cost the taxpayers about $3,150.

When I asked Crandall how he justified this flight, he replied: "It was a training flight. There were certain problems to be considered."

In early March, Crandall flew to Chanute Field, Ill., taking with him on the plane an Air Force car for his own transportation during a ten-day maintenance school. The car was rolled into the plane without listing it on the cargo manifest. But when Crandall started back to Dallas, the operations officer at Chanute required him to list the car on the manifest. He refused to give the plane clearance until the car was so listed.

Last February, Crandall was attending a two-week training course at Biloxi, Miss. During the two-week course, he got a phone call from his wife wanting him to come home. Crandall called one of his subordinates, who arranged a training flight to bring him home for the weekend. At a cost of $300 per hour for operating a C-119, this set the taxpayers back around $3,600 to spend a weekend at home.

Then there was another interesting air junket two years earlier to Casper, Wyo. This was a "routine training" flight, ending up with a deer hunting expedition which brought about a dozen deer back to Hensley. They were kept in Air Force refrigerators until the hunters could make arrangements to pick them up. Crandall didn't make this flight, which cost the taxpayers another $3,900.

I asked Crandall: "Don't you organize a training mission just about whenever you want to take a friend someplace?"

Guest Editorial

BIRMINGHAM POST-HERALD: Built in Alarm. — We suppose you saw that item the other day about the latest device on sale in Tokyo department stores. It is a diaper cover that sounds a buzzer when the baby becomes wet.

It looks like the ingenious Japanese have over-reached themselves this time. The occupant of the crib is his own best alarm system. He needs no electronic assistance.

What is really needed is some sort of gentle contrivance to muffle the sounds that come from the nursery in the dead of night. Why is it that wherever a baby is, there the acoustics are perfect?

"No, sir. If proficiency is not to be gained," he said. "I doubt if we would take the flight."

Tax Huddle

The nation's regional tax commissioners gathered in a quiet country inn at Asheville, N. C., last week to discuss how to make tax collecting a little less painful for the public.

The closed-door meeting was called by the Internal Revenue service's unassuming new boss, Mortimer Caplin, who gained his experience for the job on the other side of the tax fence as a tax attorney and University of Virginia professor.

He made it clear to the assembled regional heads that he expects all internal revenue employees to deal with the public fairly and politely. Every citizen should be given the same courteous consideration, he stressed, as men of prominence or politics.

He also discussed plans for making the tax forms simpler and speeding up the massive paper work in order to make it easier for taxpayers to comply with the laws.

New Perspective

There was a time when considerable sentiment existed in this country against courses on the nature and working of communism. People seemed to fear possible contamination of students.

The nation's school administrators, at least, are not of that mind today. A recent survey by the magazine Nation's Schools showed 63 per cent stating that all high schools should offer specific courses on communism. And many of the rest thought the subject should be fitted into other courses.

It is worthy of note, too, that so solid a conservative as Sen. Barry Goldwater strongly favors such teachings. Time was when men of his stripe thought exactly the reverse.

An Ebb Tide

Forestry conservationists have been moaning for years about the waste of trees that manifests itself in the great cascade of paper that engulfs business and government in this age.

No place feels the deluge as does Washington, where documents, speeches, news releases and what not pour forth from government, lobbyists, agencies concerned with government.

But perhaps the flood of words has hit its peak at last, and the ebb tide begun. Arrived at an office the other day was an envelope from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Inside was a sheet of paper with a head which said: "News release."

The page was absolutely blank.

Geography Lesson

Republicans are up in arms over President Kennedy's reported plan to extend diplomatic recognition to the Soviet puppet state of Outer Mongolia. But probably few Americans of either party know much about the place.

Vaguely we're aware that it lies somewhere in the wilds of northeastern Asia. For the record, it touches Russia's Siberian lands on the north, Chinese Manchuria on the east, the Great Wall of China to the south, and Russian Turkistan to the west.

The land is generally high, mostly desert, supporting a nomadic population of around one million. Stock raising is the big thing, though some valuable minerals exist. It's a bit bigger than Alaska, and actually one of the world's oldest countries.

It is always nice to know what it is the politicians are arguing about.

Goal Or An End?

In his book, "The Century of Total War," the French author Raymond Aron made the point that the great wars of this age have a frightening characteristic in common: once launched they tend to become ungovernable, to take a form and direction not wholly within the command of those who start them.

A good many observers of present-day life seem to be saying almost the same thing of our existence today without war.

Industries like the railroads plunge toward desperate economic trouble with no one really moving to halt the descent. Cities sprawl formlessly into the countryside, engulfing all.

If there is form and direction, when will we see it and feel it?

Communism Still Only a Dream

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Real communism for the Russians is still a long way off. They try to make it look otherwise. It won't stick.

In the 44 years since the revolution they've had socialism. Communism is still only a dream.

Nevertheless the Russian Communist party over the weekend released its program for the next 20 years. It holds out rich promise of a better and easier life.

Some Westerners, used to sneering at anything Soviet, are apt to call it pie in the sky stuff. There's no reason to.

Since the revolution in 1917 the Communist party in Russia has worked miracles.

True, the miracles hold bloody foundations: purges, liquidations, a whole generation of people kept at the grindstone and to a living standard far below this country's.

But the progress made is indisputable. Even greater progress can be expected.

If some of the program promises are made good they can be expected to affect other areas of the world in one way or another. For instance: the promise of free medicine, free housing.

The United States and Russia are in a contest for the minds of men through foreign aid to backward countries. The backward people, anxious to come abreast of the 20th century fast, may be more influenced by the progress in the two giants.

But the Russian Communist party goes too far when it says in its program: "The present generation of Soviet people shall live under communism."

"Socialism has triumphed in the Soviet Union completely and finally, within two decades, the Communist society will on the whole be built in the U.S.S.R."

Communism means a classless society where people get paid not in accordance with their work or merit but their needs.

Under socialism, which Russia has, there are classes and people get paid according to merit and work performed.

There are three distinct classes in Russia now: the intelligentsia,

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
L. L. Lawrence, of Muskogee, Okla., has been appointed to succeed Pearl C. Teufel, deceased, as special agent for the M.K. & T. railroad and has assumed his duties with headquarters in Sedalia.

FORTY YEARS AGO

"At a meeting of Sedalia city council a letter from the Aerial Navigation and Engineering Company was read. It stated that this company was planning to run an aerial line from Chicago to Denver via Kansas City, Sedalia and St. Louis, and wanted permission to build an emergency landing field in Sedalia where planes may stop to load and unload freight or passengers. The field, the letter state, would be equipped with lighting facilities to make night flying possible. It was referred to committee.

peasants and workers.

The intelligentsia is a broad grouping. It includes scientists, artists, writers, engineers, factory managers, bureaucrats, many kinds of white collar workers.

The peasants and workers can be divided into skilled, semi-skilled, and unskilled.

The people in the three big groups, with all their subdivisions, get different pay, live in different kinds of houses.

The new party program, with its rosy predictions of 20 years from now, says "communism is a classless social system (in which) the great principle 'from each according to his ability, to each according to his needs' will be implemented."

This part of the program is doubletalk. Read carefully, it doesn't actually promise that within 20 years a man will be paid according to his needs.

It said: "The present generation of Soviet people shall live under communism."

"In the current decade (1961-1970) the Soviet Union (will be) creating the material and technical basis of communism.

"In the next decade (1971-1980) the material and technical basis of communism will be created (and) will come close to the stage where it can introduce the principle of distribution according to needs."

Note: it said that day will be close. What's close? Another 20 years.

Stalin himself said "we cannot tolerate a situation where a railway locomotive driver earns only as much as a copying clerk."

Marx and Lenin both said the difference between skilled and unskilled labor would exist under socialism, even after classes had been abolished, that only under communism would this difference disappear and wages be paid according to need.

So, before the Russians start changing their pay scales, they'll have to abolish classes. That will take some doing. Once a group gets into a favored position it doesn't yield easily. And there are a lot of favored groups in Russia.

We, the Women

Save Breath, Men, When Gals Get 'Carried Away'

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It often isn't easy for a man to compete successfully for a woman's full attention.

Woman momentarily find many things more fascinating than a man's conversation. For instance:

• The conversation at the next table when the two are dining in a restaurant. Women are born eavesdroppers, who find no conversation directed toward them as fascinating as what they can manage to overhear.

• A mirror. When a woman whips a mirror out of her handbag a man might as well quit talking. The only answer he'll get is "Mmmm . . ." as his companion pats her hair, applies fresh lipstick and checks her eye shadow.

• A more attractive woman. When a head-turning woman enters a public place no man has his feminine companion's full attention until she has inspected the other woman as objectively as though she were a fashion model — mentally estimating the cost of her clothes, carefully checking her coiffure, and arriving at a pretty accurate guess as to her age.

• A celebrity — any celebrity. If there is a celebrity in the gathering the women present aren't going to be looking at their companions. They are, sure as shooting, going to be looking at the celebrity — storing up impressions with which to regale their friends.

• A newly decorated shop window. Though there is a man at her side the woman who is looking at a display of tantalizing clothes or furniture is way off in a world of her own — mentally refitting a dress into her own wardrobe or a chair into her own living room. And it doesn't matter at all that she has no real intention of ever purchasing, either. She may be just playing a game — but momentarily it's more fascinating than anything her companion happens to be saying.

Democrat Pick-ups

By News Staff

It was a terrible storm and the lights were out. And so was the cat because they had been painting before the lights went out and didn't want the cat around to get in the wet paint.

There was a scratching at the door and the woman told her husband to put the cat in the basement. Then she decided she would do it herself. She groped her way through the dark kitchen to the door and as she paused, just about to open the screen a voice said: "Lady, have you got a telephone?"

The telephone was another thing that was out — and if she could have moved, she would have been out, too, but she was just too scared. It couldn't have been the cat talking to her, and she couldn't see anybody, it was so black. Then the voice went on to explain that she was stuck in the mud somewhere near there and had made her way to the house and asked to use the telephone.

The woman in the house answered the voice, because she saw nothing in the darkness, and told her the phone was out. Then she tried to offer her other assistance — asked her to come in out of the pouring rain — to take her where she wanted to go. But the voice refused and disappeared in the thought she couldn't get any wetter than she already was. The thing that still bothers the woman is where the mud was that the unseen woman got stuck in. Since there is no mud for blocks around where she lives — H. L.

Boat Commission Readies for Action

The Missouri Boat Commission, financed by the legislature for the first time in its 2 1/2 year history, is readying a statewide program of boat safety and regulation.

J. T. Johnson, newly appointed executive secretary of the commission, reports the state has been separated into five areas and eight agents are being hired for service in the areas.

One of the agents first jobs will be to see that motorboats are registered with the state in accordance with the law.

M. E. Morris, state revenue director and chairman of the commission, says some 40,000 boats already are registered, but that this is about half the total that should be.

It is estimated that one in three families will have a boat by 1965.

Up to now, the commission has been handicapped in trying to carry out the law in that it had no funds. The 70th General Assembly passed a boat safety law, but failed to finance it.

All boats with an engine of more than 10 hp are required to be registered with the commission. The fee is $5 and registration is good for three years.

Registration forms may be obtained from the Missouri Boat Commission, Jefferson Bldg., Jefferson City, Mo. Or they may be obtained from marinas and some boat dealers.

Once a boat is registered, it must meet certain safety requirements. Included is the carrying of life preservers and proper lights for night operation. There also are rules regarding water skiing and surfboarding.

Agents of the commission will patrol lakes and rivers of the state and the state is buying eight motorboats for the job. The boats are 16-foot "Richlines" with 75 hp Johnson motors.

Commission agents will be uniformed in khaki and may issue warnings and citations to violators of the boat law.

Local law enforcement officials' cooperation is being sought by the commission where arrests must be made. Johnson reports very good cooperation assured by county sheriffs, among others.

The U. S. Coast Guard is helping, also.

"We plan to be firm, but we plan to be nice, too," Johnson states. "We want to do our very best to show the people of our state we are trying to render a service."

Johnson says more warnings than citations will be issued at first. This will give everyone another opportunity to become acquainted with the law.

After the boating season, Johnson says his agents will embark on a program of talks on boating safety and the law to schools and clubs.

"A good deal of our work is to be of an educational nature," he says.

Health Division Has List Of Tuberculars

The state Division of Health has a register of some 1,000 citizens infected with communicable tuberculosis who are spreading the disease among their fellow citizens by their refusal to confine themselves until well.

Dr. H. M. Hardwicke, director of the division of health, says no county is without some eight to ten. He estimates that each recalcitrant tubercular has infected some eight to sixteen children already, children being especially susceptible.

But armed with a law passed by the 71st General Assembly, the health division has begun to move to correct the situation. Each tubercular on the register is being contacted and is being ordered under a physician's care and into confinement until well. Refusal will mean removal to the state sanitarium at Mount Vernon.

The 71st General Assembly also gave the Missouri public health program other new tools. One of these is a law requiring immunization of school children from certain diseases, unless there is written objection from a parent.

Dr. Hardwicke says the law will reinforce efforts of local physicians and will mean immunization of from 20 to 30 per cent more children.

"If a child is not immunized, there will be written record of a parent's refusal. Thus the responsibility is clear," Dr. Hardwicke says.

A meeting of health and school officials is scheduled for Aug. 13 on the new law.

The legislature also passed a law allowing an area's zoning laws to be spread out through county-wide zoning. A vote of the people would be necessary. Public health officials are particularly interested in seeing sanitation rules applied to outlying areas.

Counties Lower Wolf Bounties

Acting under authority granted by the 71st General Assembly, several western counties are lowering wolf bounty payments from the maximum of $15 to $5.

Counties lowering bounties thus far are Vernon, Bates, Barton, Henry, Cedar, Dade, Cass, Johnson and Jasper. St. Clair is considering similar action.

Dedicated fishermen spend their lives wondering what goes on in a fish's tiny brain. Controversies rage, all because it's hard to get a straight answer from a fish. One of the points of issue is are fish scared by motorboats? An experiment proved that fishing's about the same on days when a lake resounds with motors, as on days of complete quiet. Fish don't seem to be as nervous as fishermen.

ONE HOUR'S WORK BUYS MORE. American consumers can now buy more chicken, turkey, and eggs for one hour's labor than ever before. Figures compiled by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture show that an average hour's wages in 1947-49 of $1.30 would buy 22 eggs, 1.8 lbs. of turkey, or 2.2 lbs. of broilers. By 1960, an hour's wages ($2.29) would buy more than twice as many eggs or pounds of poultry meat. These bargains for consumers have resulted from increased efficiency in the poultry industry. Also, strong competition in the industry has meant low profit margins.

Treat Evergreens for Bagworms

Much evergreen shrubbery over Sedalia is being defoliated by bagworms. These pests usually strike in June but are late this year as is everything else. For best results and to avoid as much worm damage as possible, spray when the small worms are first noticed.

For control spray with toxaphene at rate of two tablespoons 60-65 per cent toxaphene emulsifiable concentrate per gallon of water or two quarts 60-65 per cent toxaphene emulsifiable concentrate per 100 gallons of water.

Or spray with malathion at rate of one tablespoon 57 per cent malathion emulsifiable concentrate or two tablespoons 25 per cent malathion wettable powder per gallon of water. Or use one quart 57 per cent malathion emulsifiable concentrate or five pounds 25 per cent malathion wettable powder per 100 gallons of water. CAUTION: Malathion may cause injury when used on Cannard red cedar.

Or spray with sevin at rate of two tablespoons 50 per cent sevin wettable powder per gallon of water, or two pounds 50 per cent sevin wettable powder per 100 gallons of water.

Mowed Pastures Will Reduce Eye Troubles in Cattle

We have suggested several times that mowing pastures would be good for the pastures. May we add it would also be good for the cattle grazing in them.

A farmer of near Houstonia was in the office Monday. He had some cattle in a rented pasture that was heavily infested with white daisies. He said every time you touched the daisies a thick cloud of pollen arose.

Certainly that pollen is irritating to cattle's eyes and mowing would eliminate it. Other tall weeds and grass will also cause irritation as the cattle graze through it. This man had one steer that had already lost its sight.

Actually there is an eye sensitivity to light after the irritation starts. Keeping cattle in shade or in a building plus medication as often as possible will clear up the trouble in minimum time.

Grasshoppers

In isolated areas, grasshoppers are becoming more evident. The areas with the heaviest populations are those where recent rains have been light. In those areas where heavy rains have occurred during and immediately following the period of egg hatch, a majority of the small hoppers have been killed. In the drier areas, a majority of the hoppers have attained the size where rainfall will not kill many of them, and they are starting to move into the margins of alfalfa, red clovers and certain row crops.

Chinch Bugs

Some additional areas are witnessing chinch bug damage to small corn and grain sorghums. Widely scattered fields of both crops are being damaged. A majority of the bugs are in the adult state, but some are still in the nymphal stage.

Since migration is over, controls must now be directed at the crop to be protected. Use dieldrin at the rate of 8 ounces (2 1/2-ounce pints) 15 per cent dieldrin emulsifiable concentrate per acre. Plug the nozzles over the rows, and use drop nozzles between the rows. Concentrate the spray on the lower portions of the stalks from the ground line up.

Corn Leaf Aphids

This dark green aphid is beginning to appear in heavy numbers in scattered fields in corn nearing the tasseling stage, and is quite common in the whorls of grain sorghums throughout the state. This is an annual problem on grain sorghums. In most seasons, the infestations appear much more severe than they actually are. Spraying for the control of this aphid on grain sorghums has not resulted in increased yields in Missouri. Occasionally, under conditions of very heavy infestations and dry weather, the aphids may cause reddish to orange colored streaking or discoloration of the leaves, and spraying under these conditions has stopped the discoloration.

Should controls become justified, use malathion at the rate of 1 1/2 pints 57 per cent malathion emulsifiable concentrate per acre. Plug the nozzles between the rows and concentrate the spray in the whorls. During periods of widespread and heavy populations, reinfestation following spraying may occur in as little as 10 to 14 days.

European Corn Borer

The first brood of borers has now started to pupate in the central area of the state. Some moth emergence can be expected during the coming week.

Apparently natural control of the first generation borers has been very good in the central area, since many of the fields showing heavy leaf feeding signs now have only 10 to 25 borers per 100 stalks. Many of the borers never entered the stalks and several have pupated on the outside of the plants.

Exactly what this means in terms of second generation infestation, remains to be seen. All in any one given field.

Potato Leafhoppers on Alfalfa

Leafhopper yellowing continues to be evident in scattered alfalfa fields in the central area of the state, and many of the partially grown, pale green leafhoppers can be found in these fields.

Since many of these fields are approaching maturity, we would suggest that the alfalfa be cut instead of spraying. Watch the field corn will be in a susceptible stage of development for the second generation, thus, a dilution factor of so many susceptible fields may reduce the numbers new growth, and at the first sign of yellowing due to leafhoppers, spray with methoxychlor at the rate of one pound (two quarts 25 per cent methoxychlor emulsifiable concentrate) per acre. Do not cut alfalfa treated with this dosage of methoxychlor within seven days of treatment.

A Story to Tell the World

"If farmers were using the same materials and methods as 20 years ago the American public would be paying some $30 million more each day for food."

This is a statement by E. T. York, Administrator of the Federal Extension Service. It shows how the explosion in agricultural productivity in recent years has resulted in tremendous savings to the public. Productivity in U.S. Agriculture has gone up more in the past two decades than in all recorded time prior to 1940.

The increase in agricultural efficiency has made it possible for the public to spend an ever-decreasing share of income for products of its disposable income for food — far less than any other nation. This releases dollars for other needs and wants and increases demand for all sorts of non-agricultural products.

To answer the criticism that the farmer is responsible for higher food costs we can point out, says Administrator York, that while food prices did increase 32 per cent from 1946 to 1957, the farmer got only 0.4 of one per cent of that increase. With the farmer having to pay higher prices for virtually everything he bought during that period, his net income has declined almost continuously since the late 1940's.

The take home pay from an hour of labor will buy two to three times as much food as it would 20 years ago.

For example, in 1914 the average wage earner worked about 23 minutes to buy a quart of milk. In 1929 he worked 15 minutes, in 1947 about 10 minutes and in 1959 only seven minutes.

During 1960 the average American consumed 1488 pounds of food. Milk and milk products, except butter, provided 28 per cent of the total food supply. Dairy farmers received 19 cents from each food dollar, according to the U.S.D.A.

When the consumer buys a quart of milk the farmer gets 11 cents. The marketing system gets 13 cents for assembling, processing, retailing, delivery and other expenses; and one cent profit before taxes.

Milk is one of the cheapest foods in terms of food value. It's quality has been improved in recent years because it is produced under more sanitary conditions. Nearly all milk is pasteurized, much of it is homogenized and has Vitamin D added, and it is kept cooler during marketing.

The consumer has a real food bargain in milk.

Agriculture has one of the greatest success stories imaginable. We must continue to tell this story so agriculture will have the support and confidence of the non-farm public. This is essential if we are to solve some of agriculture's most pressing problems.

Fall Garden Planting Time In Mid-Missouri

By Merle Vaughan
County Agent

It's time to remind you that fall garden planting time is here. Try to get fall gardens planted sometime during the last week of July and the first week of August.

I realize that we don't have an abundance of garden enthusiasm at this time of year, and many folks are vacationing. But remember, you can enjoy the fruits of a good fall garden if you can find the time to get one planted.

It's also pretty tough to get a garden started in the hot July and August weather we usually have in Missouri. But it can be done. Here are a few tips. First of all, clear all plants and debris from the area to be planted. And I'd suggest making your fall garden, rather than small perhaps one-fourth to one-third the size of your spring and summer garden. The next step is to irrigate this portion you intend to plant to a fall garden. We usually are not fortunate enough to get a good soaking rain at this time of the year. So if a good rain has not come, put on about two inches of water—use a coffee can to measure the amount of water you are putting on. This will give you a moist seedbed in which to sow the seed.

After you have sown the seed, sprinkle the surface lightly each evening. The purpose of this light watering is to keep the top inch of soil moist to insure proper germination of the seed. You will find your seed will germinate quickly in these warm, moist conditions.

Continue sprinkling the surface lightly until the seedlings show their first true leaves. If you get your plants to this stage, you are over the hump, so to speak. By this time the roots have penetrated the moist soil below and should be able to fend for themselves as far as moisture is concerned.

Insects are quite active during this seedling stage, so spray with a mixture of one tablespoon of methoxychlor and four teaspoons of malathion per gallon of water. Spray once a week — often if necessary.

What are some good vegetables to plant in a fall garden? Actually there are quite a few. Spinach, turnips, kale, mustard, Chinese cabbage, kohlrabi, green bush beans, endive, leaf lettuce, and radishes. Seventy-day sweet corn, such as Gold Rush, may stand a good chance of maturing before frost if planted around the first of August or before.

Remember, a little time spent now in planting and starting a fall garden will result in some mighty fine vegetables in September and October. If you can get the garden planted and the seedlings up, the weather in September and October is ideal for the growth of all fall vegetables.

Dodgers Win Again, Still Lead League

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's a lucky break for the rest of the National League that the Los Angeles Dodgers are required to stop like everyone else for the two-day All-Star game break.

For the Dodgers are rolling in high now like most everyone figured. They walloped the Pirates 7-3 at Pittsburgh Sunday for their eighth straight victory—all on the road—and their third in a row over the fading defending champions.

This put them a half-game in front of the Cincinnati Reds who split two with the Chicago Cubs. The Reds first lost 3-2 and then recouped 5-4. San Francisco's third-place Giants stayed within eight games of the lead by powdering the Phillies 5-2.

Milwaukee and St. Louis also divided a twin bill. The Cards beat Lew Burdette (12-7) in the opener 5-3 but succumbed to Warren Spahn 3-2 in the ten-inning win/loss as Spahn gained his 29th major league triumph.

In the American League the leading New York Yankees lost a doubleheader to Baltimore, 4-0 and 2-1, and had their lead over Detroit sliced to 1½ games. Minnesota blanked the Tigers 4-0; Los Angeles nipped Cleveland 8-6; and the Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox split two, Chicago winning first 4-2, and then losing 9-8.

The Dodgers clicked for nine hits, including Tommy Davis' 15th homer and two singles, and Duke Snider's two-run double in the sixth, off Joe Gibbon (8-6) and three other hurlers. Don Drysdale (9-6), with help from Ron Perranoski in the ninth, muffled the Bucs with six hits.

Ed Bouchee's two-run homer in the second inning and Billy Williams' run-scoring double helped Don Cardwell (9-7) to his 3-2 edge over the Reds in the opener. The Reds wriggled to victory in the second game on Jerry Lynch's two-run pinch single that climaxed a four-run rally in the seventh inning.

Willie Mays clubbed his 29th homer and a run-scoring single in San Francisco's win over the Phils. Jack Sanford (6-5) went all the way with a seven-hitter.

Bill White clouted a pair of homers (10 and 11) for St. Louis to beat Burdette and the Braves. Relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel (7-5) got the win. Spahn (10-12) finally recorded No. 298 on Hank Aaron's run-producing single in the tenth inning. The old lefty yielded ten hits.

Women's Open Finals
MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The final round of the American Women's Open Golf Tournament, washed out Sunday, will be played this afternoon unless rain causes another postponement.

Rookie pro Judy Kimball is the tournament leader.

Miss Kimball held a two-stroke lead after completion of 54 holes Saturday, when her 2-under-par 73 gave her a 221. She was trailed by Mickey Wright and Betsy Rawls, president of the Ladies' Professional Golf Association.

January, Barber Playoff

18 Extra Holes Set Today For PGA Golf Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Jerry (Incredible) Barber, a mighty, little bantam who didn't know when to quit, and shaken, unbelieving Don January play 18 extra holes today for the national PGA golf championship at Olympia Fields in the wake of what Barber called "the most amazing finish of my career."

Four strokes behind January, a jittery Texan with a picture swing, with three holes to play, Barber sank putts of 30, 40 and 50 feet—two of them for birdies—and forced a 72-hole tie at 277.

The 55, 157-pound Barber, 45, and the reed-thin January, 31, will try to settle a duel that carried through 36 pressure-drenched holes Sunday over the 6,722-yard, par 35-35-70 Olympia North Course. It is the first playoff since the PGA became a medal play meet in 1958. The windup will be televised by CBS 4 to 5 p.m. EST.

Each seeks his first major championship. Barber came within one stroke and two holes of nailing this title two years ago at Minneapolis. Leading by one stroke with two holes to go, the jockey-sized Californian finished bogey-bogey and lost by a shot to Bob Rosburg.

January from Dallas, has won only three regular tour tournaments. He was 16th in money winning with $17,000 last year.

Barber, leading January and Doug Sanders by two strokes after 16 holes, was considered too old and too short a hitter to stand up through the 36-hole climax dictated by Friday's washout. Young January shot a morning 67 and moved into the lead by two strokes, at 205 to 207, over Barber, who shot a one-over-par 71.

Barber, apparently wilting in the heat that brought steam from the rain-soaked fairways, had taken a double bogey 6 after a dubbed 75-yard drive at the 68th hole and was four behind January when they came to the 16th hole of the closing round.

Then began the most incredible golf finish since Arnold Palmer's 70-65 finish in the 1960 National Open.

A drive and a 4-wood put Barber 30 feet from the cup on the 16th—the 70th of the tournament. While January took a bogey 5, Barber rapped in an uphill putt for a birdie 3.

January got a routine 4 on the 71st, but Barber salvaged his with a 40-foot sidehill putt after dubbing his drive and taking two more shots to reach the green.

On the last hole, with upwards of 10,000 lining the fairway, Barber drove straight down the middle. January pulled his drive into a trap and hit a 6-iron shot halfway to the green. Barber banged a 4-wood that caught the left corner of the green. January's wedge shot stopped 15 feet to the left of the hole.

Barber, peering through the dusk, examined his putt for a full five minutes, then hit it boldly. It curled to the right, caught the left corner of the cup and dropped in. January then missed by two inches the putt that would have avoided a playoff.

January's four rounds for the regulation distance were 72-66-67-72 and Barber's 69-67-71-70. At stake today was $11,000 for the winner and $5,500 for the runner-up.

can master enough accuracy. That leaves the retrieve as the most important trick in trying to film a fish on the hook. And this is one phase of sport casting that many fishermen ignore. This is especially true of the topwater which when the water is flat and fish are snuggling up near the surface, can be the most effective lure.

Too often this surface lure is retrieved at such a speed that a fish would need a little bit of Jesse Owen in him to catch up. When the surface plug is first cast, let it lie in the water without retrieving action for at least 30 seconds, or even a minute, if you have the patience. Then give the rod a sharp twitch, causing the lure to "chunk" or pop on the water. Let it lie again for about the same amount of time, then retrieve slowly about two or three feet of line. Repeat the process, then take in another two or three feet of line. If the fish hasn't struck by the third pop, retrieve all of the line quickly and cast back into the same spot.

Jiggling baits (usually leadheads with plastic worms attached), very effective lure in big, deep waters, also should be worked very slowly, bouncing almost in slow motion on the bottom of the lake.

Spoons and spinners should be retrieved at a speed to match the type of fish you're after. Walleyes generally like a slow retrieve, so select a lure that has a lot of action with a slow return. Northerns and bass prefer a fast retrieve, although northerns often will hit a lure if you slack off the retrieve near the boat.

Baby Birds Back Into Contention

By MURRAY ROSE

Baltimore's fine pitching made the Yankees' home run thunder sound as loud as a cat on a rug over the weekend. The Orioles flingers not only dampened the New Yorkers' gunpowder but moved Baltimore back into contention in the American League.

Steve Barber and Milt Pappas, the Orioles' 22-year-old hurlers, and reliever Dick Hall, led Baltimore to a 4-0 and 2-1 doubleheader sweep Sunday that left the league-leading Yanks fuming and their home run kings, Roger Maris (40) and Mickey Mantle (39) fruitless.

The Yanks were lucky that Minnesota's Jack Kralick blitzed runner-up Detroit 4-0 with an eight-hitter that gave the Twins a three-game cleanup over the Tigers.

As the clubs took their two-day All-Star game break, the Yanks were 1½ games in front of Detroit and 8½ ahead of Baltimore.

Cleveland's fourth-place Indians dropped 11½ games off the pace on an 8-6 loss to the pesky Los Angeles Angels. Washington's Bennie Daniels whitewashed Kansas City 4-0 and Boston and Chicago split a doubleheader, the White Sox taking the opener 4-2 and then losing 9-8.

In the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers pulled a half-game in front of Cincinnati by walloping Pittsburgh 7-3 while the Reds split a doubleheader with Chicago, losing 3-2 and winning 5-4. San Francisco's Giants beat Philadelphia 5-2. St. Louis and Milwaukee split a doubleheader. The Cards beat Lew Burdette 5-3 and bowed to Warren Spahn, 3-2, in the 10-inning closer as Spahn scored his 29th major league victory.

Barber (12-8), a lefty, stopped the Yanks cold in the opener with seven hits as Hank Foiles' two homers drove in three runs. In the nightcap, Pappas (7-6) had a three-hit shutout for seven innings but required Hall's help in the ninth.

The right-handed reliever came in with Baltimore leading 2-1, the bases loaded and none out. He blazed a called third strike past Clete Boyer and got pinchhitter Hector Lopez to hit into a game-ending double play.

Yankee manager Ralph Houk, still turning over the call on Boyer, stormed out of the dugout and jostled plate umpire Ed Hurrey. It will cost him a fine and possibly a suspension.

Kralick (10-6) scattered eight Tiger hits in Detroit. He won out on Bob Allison's 23rd homer and Ted Lepcio's sixth. Shortstop Dick McAuliffe suffered a slight nose fracture and outfielder Bubba Morton a sprained left ankle in a crash at first base to add to the wounded Tigers' woes.

Daniels (6-5) pitched his first shutout for Washington in shattering the Athletics at Kansas City with six hits. Gene Green's homer (14th) in the second proved the winner.

The Angels outthundered Cleveland 5-4 but it was a sixth-inning single by Lee Thomas that poked in the winning run at Los Angeles.

Lefty Frank Baumann (8-8) whipped his old Red Sox mates with a six-hitter and a run-scoring double in the first game. In the second contest, pinchhitter Joe Ginsberg's 10th inning, two-out single gave Boston a split.

Important Role Of 2-Year-Olds

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Out of Saturday's gold-laden horse races came a trio of 2-year-olds who figure to play an important role in the awarding of championship trophies this year.

Two—Riden and Battle Joined—are unbeaten colts. The other—Batter Up—is a filly sired by the great Tom Fool, with the blood of the equally great War Admiral in her veins.

Riden, owned by Mrs. Moody Jolley, chalked up his fifth straight victory in easily accounting for the $211,750 for the Arlington Futurity at Arlington Park. Battle Joined from the Cain Hay Stable of Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim didn't race for any big money, but he reeled off 6 furlongs in 1:10.3-5 on a very sloppy track at Monmouth Park for his third successive triumph.

It was at Monmouth that Batter Up, from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley Stable, put in a strong claim to the juvenile filly title with a 2¼-length, front-running triumph over Polyady in the $100,000 Sorority.

Riden, who was clocked in 1:09 for 6-furlongs under Bill Hartack, and Battle Joined are scheduled to hook up Saturday in the $100,000-added Sapping at Monmouth Park, along with other topnotchers in the division.

Elsewhere on probably the richest day ever on the American turf, Hugh A. Grant's Airmans Guide took the $159,687 Delaware Handicap for fillies and mares at Delaware Park, and Milton Ritzenberg's Wise Ship won the $100,000 Man O'War handicap at Aqueduct.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I noticed in the classified section of the newspaper that a certain party had a stove for sale. My husband and I were interested so we phoned first and then drove over.

When the man came to the door I said, "I am the lady who phoned about the stove." The first minute we were alone my husband said to me, "You should not have said 'lady', you should have said 'woman'."

I'm a little miffed that my husband doesn't think I should call myself a lady. He says it is self-praise. I say it is nothing of the kind. Will you settle it? — NO LADY (?)

Dear No (?): The words are now used interchangeably. Now, tell me something important — like did you buy the stove?

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is right in my back yard. It's a swimming pool. Don't get the idea we are rich. We are people of modest means who decided it was easier to invest in a pool than to drag our children to the public pool every day and go get them.

The trouble is the neighbor kids come in droves, uninvited, and sometimes they don't even bother to bring their own suits. They expect us to provide towels, refreshments and telephone service. Some days we've had as many as twenty kids. I feel as if I am running a public bath-house.

The younger visitors ask to borrow our children's masks, frog-feet and snorkel tubes. If they are refused they go home and say our kids are selfish. The pool has caused so much trouble I'm ready to fill it with cement. Is there another solution? — STUCK

Dear Stuck: Yes. Call the parents and tell them of your problem. Tell them too, that their kids are welcome only if they have been invited because nobody is free to "drop in" anymore. Ask your children to invite the friends they want (clearing through you first, so you don't have 20 on the same day). Each guest should be reminded to bring his suit and a towel.

You may make a few enemies but don't let it bother you. Reasonable people will be sympathetic and cooperative. Unreasonable people are impossible no matter what you try to do to please them.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a close friend who has a lot of nerve. She has a habit of saying to me, whenever I wear something she likes, "I'd love to have that when you are through with it." And then she keeps at me until I promise to give it to her.

I hate to give worn out gifts so I find myself handing things over long before I am through with them. Then after I have given her the hat or the dress or the purse, I get mad at myself for being such a patsy. This woman can afford to buy anything she wants. She has more money than I have... she's just cheap. Any suggestions? — OUT-SMARTED

Dear Out-Smarted: From now on, when she hands you the old line simply say, "I'll never be through with THIS. I intend to wear it until it falls apart." Then stick to your guns.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcohol-ic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. c 1961, Field Enterprises, Inc.

Ziegfeld Man Succumbs To Long Illness

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Harry Gribbon, 75, a onetime star of the Ziegfeld Follies and veteran song and dance man, died Friday after a long illness.

He had retired about eight years ago and was at the motion picture country home when he died.

Born in New York, Gribbon hit the big time in show business with a lead in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1913. He came to Hollywood about 1914 and for 10 years played leading roles in silent pictures for the Mack Sennett Studios.

Known professionally as "Silk Hat Harry," Gribbon and his wife, actress Mae Emory, toured in vaudeville on the Orpheum-Keith and Pantages circuits. He returned to Broadway in the 1930s.

Man Is Unhappy With Ugly Title

PINEROLO, Italy (AP)—Mario Gendarin was none too pleased today after a jury of pretty girls chose him "Mr. Brutto 1961" in an annual competition at the village of Lusserana San Giovanni.

Brutto means ugly and the contest chooses the town's ugliest man.

Gendarin, 36, a carpenter, said "I knew I wasn't handsome, but I didn't think I was that ugly."

The seminar was sponsored by the Freedom Foundation of Valley Forge. Discussions were conducted in four panels. "Start digging a bomb shelter"—that's one way citizens can help, said Frank R. Barnett of New York, a lecturer and author on Russian affairs and psychological warfare.

SENT CENTS—Holding a two-yard string of pennies taped together, San Antonio, Texas, court clerk Roy Keitt looks sad. He has reasons too. The 100-penny payment of a parking fine arrived with 53 cents postage due, for one reason; for another, it took Roy 30 minutes to remove pennies from the tape.

Truman Full Of Life At Camp Visit

CAMP RIPLEY, Minn. (AP)—Harry Truman, who says he doesn't want to be a "statesman" because they are only "dead politicians," showed plenty of life visiting his old unit in training here over the weekend.

The former president attacked the Russians and some Republicans, tossed out views on the office of the presidency, sit-ins and Cuba, joked with friends and put in one of his frequent plugs for politics as an art.

At a news conference Saturday, the 71-year-old Truman was peppy and jaunty, shooting back answers and obviously enjoying himself.

He called the Russians "the greatest bluffers in the history of the world," and said President Kennedy's preparedness speech last week called their bluff. Truman made the comment when reminded that he had faced a similar crisis in 1948-49, when he responded with the Berlin airlift.

Truman commanded a battery of the 35th as a captain in World War I. He participated in "Truman Day" ceremonies here to present the unit a new, ribbon-decked Army flag being given all National Guard units.

Some of Truman's comments: On criticism of Truman's record by Sen. Homer Capehart, R-Ind., "That fat man from Indiana didn't know what was going on then and still doesn't."

On sit-ins, wade-ins and freedom riders: "Those people should stay at home and clean their own houses. If they let the South alone it will solve its own problems."

On what he considered his most important decision as president: Going to war over Korea.

On whether the farm problem is getting better: "I don't know, but I certainly hope so."

On being president: "I had a great time. I had many experiences, some good, some like hell. When the present occupant came to see me, I told him he was in more trouble than any man gets into voluntarily. That's what the presidency is."

On politics: "I'm a politician, and I'm proud of it. A politician is someone who knows government, and it's the most important thing there is."

Earthquake Rattles A California Town

PASO ROBLES, Calif. (AP)—An earthquake rattled windows and crockery in the Paso Robles-King City area at 5:07 p.m. Sunday.

No damage was reported. The usually quake-sensitive area of Hollister, a hundred miles to the north along the same fault, reported no tremor. Residents indicated the quake centered about 25 miles east of Paso Robles.

Rules Are Given Motorboat Law Enforcement Underway By Peace Officers

By RUSSELL A. MANN JR. Missouri Press News Service

Missouri's motorboat law now being enforced by agents of the Missouri Boat Commission and peace officers around the state prescribes safety rules and regulations.

The law applies to all boats with motors of more than 10 hp.

The first rule says that motorboats shall be effectively muffled by equipment so constructed and used as to muffle the noise of the exhaust "in a reasonable manner."

Cut-outs are prohibited except in a regatta or approved boat races and for motorboats in trial runs for such events.

Secondly, all motorboats are required to carry safety equipment. This equipment is:

1. One life preserver, buoyant vest, ring buoy or buoyant cushion of a type approved by the U.S. Coast Guard and "in good and serviceable condition" for each person on board.

2. When in operation during hours of darkness, a light sufficient to make the motorboat's presence and location known to any and all other motorboats within a reasonable distance.

3. If carrying or using inflammable or toxic fluid in any enclosure for any purpose, and if not in an entirely open motorboat, an efficient natural or mechanical ventilation system which is capable of removing gases.

Thirdly, no person shall operate a motorboat, water skis or surf-

Families of French Servicemen Leave Bizerte On Sunday

PARIS (AP)—The French liner President de Cazalet left Bizerte Sunday with 1,300 relatives of French servicemen stationed at the military base near the battle-scarred Tunisian city.

Despite the cease-fire between Tunisian and French forces in Bizerte, officials said the base area to the Motor Boat Commission. This report cannot be used as evidence in any court action which may result among parties involved.

Violators are guilty of a misdemeanor and can be fined up to $100 for each violation. All peace officers may enforce the law.

The Daily Newspaper
Is the Safer, Surer
Advertising Investment

Two questions influence the choice of an advertising medium. First, what does it cost to reach a person with a sales message? Second, how many of those you reach will buy? A typical advertiser can reach a person through newspapers at least as economically as through other media. And the newspaper delivers an audience that likes to read advertising, prefers newspapers with advertising, and shops from advertising. Such an audience guarantees more sales action per message delivered, and makes newspapers the safer, surer ad medium. Why not send the daily newspaper to bat for you?

Government Spending Up $10 Billion

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, in his first six months in office, has advanced concrete proposals for increasing future federal spending by well over $10 billion.

Actually, the eventual spending boost would be even greater under the administration's new and expanded programs. However, $10,407,600,000 represents the amount of added spending authority which Kennedy wants Congress to provide at this time.

Of the total amount, $6,510,000,000 would be spent during the 1962 fiscal year which began July 1. The rest would be spread over several years.

In the light of administration programs announced to date, observers expect the fiscal 1963 spending budget to approach $90 billion. This would compare with $87,723,000,000 now officially forecast for the current fiscal year.

Although the current-year budget deficit will total at least $5,290,000,000, administration officials are hopeful of balancing the budget next year. Kennedy has warned he will ask Congress for a tax increase, if necessary, to achieve a budget "strictly in balance."

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said recently that if the economy moves ahead as he expects, "our revenues for fiscal 1963 would be adequate to meet all of our national needs, with something left over."

That was before Kennedy's $3,454,600,000 proposal for the build-up for Berlin, but the administration argues that, while programming major spending increases, it is pursuing a course of fiscal responsibility with balanced budgets in sight. Critics contend that deficits are the more likely prospect.

The strongest clue to the rising trend in federal spending comes from an analysis of this year's requests to Congress for "new obligatory authority" — appropriations, authority to sign contracts, and authority for agencies to spend money borrowed from the Treasury.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower last January asked for $80.9 billion in obligatory authority. Revisions and additions by Kennedy have boosted the total to $91.4 billion.

Obligational authority requests normally exceed spending estimates for any single year because they cover programs coming up in future years. If the Navy is to build an aircraft carrier, for example, obligatory authority might be provided in one chunk but the money would be spent over several years.

Kennedy contends that Eisenhower's request for obligatory authority fell $86 million shy of the amount needed to finance existing programs. He has now added programs of his own calling for an extra $10.4 billion in obligatory authority.
